CAMP STORYTELLER

Chris Garriott is the RUF Campus Minister at the University of Maryland. He grew up in the Baltimore area, where he was active in his church and Young Life. He graduated from Randallstown High, then Geneva College (Civil Engineering). After working for several years he began sensing God's call to study theology, and ultimately to Covenant Theological Seminary in St. Louis. After eight years as the youth pastor at Heritage Presbyterian Church in Oklahoma City, he came back to Maryland to work with RUF, where he has been for twelve years. Chris loves to play the guitar, read theology, watch and play sports, ski, hang out with students, discuss the big questions of life, take major road trips, camp, and eat crabs. His childhood dream? Pitching for the Baltimore Orioles.
